Chaudhary Devi Lal University and Horizon JHSSR Enter into a Landmark Strategic Partnership to Advance Global Scholarship and International Academic Collaboration

9 July 2026 | Sirsa, Haryana, India / Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

The Horizon Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences Research (Horizon JHSSR), published by Beyond Proofreading Services (Malaysia), proudly announces the successful signing of a prestigious Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Chaudhary Devi Lal University (CDLU), Sirsa, Haryana, India, on 9 July 2026. This landmark collaboration signifies a major advancement in Horizon JHSSR's mission to foster international academic partnerships and strengthen research cooperation between Malaysia and India.

The agreement, endorsed on behalf of Horizon JHSSR by Professor Dr. Nayan Kanwal, Chief Executive Editor, and on behalf of CDLU by Professor Vijay Kumar, Vice Chancellor, reflects a shared vision of academic excellence founded upon research integrity, interdisciplinary scholarship, innovation, and international engagement.

The Memorandum of Understanding establishes a comprehensive framework for cooperation designed to encourage collaborative research, scholarly publishing, editorial participation, faculty and student engagement, academic writing workshops, peer-review collaboration, international conferences, professional development programmes, and the publication of high-quality research within internationally recognised scholarly platforms.

Chaudhary Devi Lal University has earned distinction as one of India's respected public universities, committed to nurturing academic excellence across diverse disciplines while contributing significantly to regional and national development through education, research, and community engagement. Horizon JHSSR likewise has steadily expanded its reputation as an internationally recognised, open-access, double peer-reviewed journal dedicated to advancing high-quality interdisciplinary scholarship through ethical publishing practices and global dissemination of research.

The convergence of these complementary strengths has created a partnership founded upon mutual respect and a shared determination to elevate research standards while broadening opportunities for scholars to engage with international academic communities. Faculty members, researchers, postgraduate scholars, and early-career academics from both institutions will benefit from enhanced opportunities for collaborative publication, editorial participation, interdisciplinary research, and professional development.

Importantly, this partnership recognises that scholarly publishing is not merely an endpoint of academic inquiry but a catalyst for innovation, dialogue, and societal transformation. By integrating research capacity building with international publishing opportunities, the collaboration seeks to empower scholars to communicate their discoveries more effectively while increasing the global visibility and impact of their work.

The MoU also provides a platform for jointly organised conferences, seminars, workshops, and thematic scholarly initiatives that encourage interdisciplinary dialogue and knowledge exchange across institutional and national boundaries. Such activities will strengthen research networks while creating opportunities for sustained academic engagement between Malaysia and India.

For Horizon JHSSR, the partnership with Chaudhary Devi Lal University represents another significant milestone in its expanding global academic footprint. It reflects increasing confidence among leading universities in the Journal's ability to facilitate research excellence, uphold the highest standards of scholarly integrity, and contribute meaningfully to international academic discourse.

Beyond the institutions themselves, the agreement symbolises the enduring educational and cultural bonds shared by Malaysia and India. Through collaborative scholarship, both partners aspire to generate knowledge that transcends geographical borders while addressing issues of global significance through evidence-based research, critical inquiry, and interdisciplinary innovation.

As both institutions embark upon this promising new chapter, they remain committed to transforming the aspirations embodied within the Memorandum of Understanding into tangible academic achievements that benefit researchers, students, educators, policymakers, and society at large.

The partnership between Chaudhary Devi Lal University and Horizon JHSSR stands as a testament to the transformative power of international collaboration. It affirms that when institutions unite around shared values of excellence, integrity, and innovation, they create enduring opportunities for scholarship to flourish across generations.

 Together, Chaudhary Devi Lal University and Horizon JHSSR reaffirm that the pursuit of knowledge knows no borders and that enduring academic partnerships remain among the most powerful instruments for advancing global understanding and human progress. 🌟
